After we vote candidates into office, how do we make sure they are keeping their promises?

Pocket Congress, Congressional App Challenge Winner, allows everyone to stay informed on how their Members of Congress are voting and understand bills that are important to them.

Congressional data is dense, complicated, and often only reachable from a computer. Pocket Congress makes information from the House and Senate easily accessible from your phone, and it's highly optimized to load quickly and present interconnected information in an understandable manner.

Pocket Congress is always current with data straight from the Federal Government. You can search through 30 years of historical information, analyze granular vote breakdowns, view official bill texts and summaries, and share links to legislation with your friends.
