

Degrees

The first weather app that shows conditions in the context of yesterday.

Degrees is available on the App Store.

I created Degrees to fill a gap that I've seen in every weather app and website I've tried.

Degrees shows you yesterday's conditions, allowing you to actually compare the weather today to what you experienced yesterday—no other service makes this historical information readily apparent. It's hard to know what 72 degrees feels like; it's much more impactful to say today will be two degrees warmer than yesterday, and tomorrow will be slightly cooler than today.

Sound interesting? Download Degrees on the App Store and drop a review or let me know if you find it useful.
